Employers turn to Christopher Mayer for his unparalleled proficiency in handling complex employment actions. With a diverse clientele that ranges from start-ups to Fortune 500 companies across various industries—including industry leaders in healthcare, technology, banking, pharmaceuticals, manufacturing, aviation, education, staffing, and nonprofit organizations—Christopher has built a reputation for delivering effective legal solutions tailored to each client's unique needs. Christopher regularly presents to industry trade groups on timely legal issues that are most important to their members.

Christopher prepares employment policies and counsels his clients on day-to-day issues concerning harassment and discrimination complaints, employee leave requests, disability accommodations, compensation matters, employment agreements, releases, hiring, terminations, and reductions-in-force. Recognizing the transformation underway as businesses implement AI (including generative artificial intelligence and machine learning) and, eventually, quantum computing, Christopher guides employers through the evolving risks and legal and ethical implications of using these tools in recruitment, screening, discipline, employee-monitoring, HR management, and termination/layoff decisions.

Christopher defends his clients against single- and multi-plaintiff and class/collective action claims involving whistleblowing, retaliation, harassment, discrimination, unpaid wages, breach of employment contracts, misappropriation of trade secrets, and breach of non-competition and non-disclosure agreements. Additionally, Christopher regularly investigates workplace complaints and assists his clients in navigating agency audits and investigations.

Christopher represents companies and executives in negotiating complex contracts, separation agreements, and other executive compensation and employment matters. He also advises on the labor and employment aspects of transactional matters, such as mergers, acquisitions, and joint ventures and assists with the transfer of employees between entities.

Christopher is particularly adept at helping healthcare providers navigate regulatory

- Representing staffing company in collective/class action asserting FLSA overtime violations and other wage and notice claims under New York Labor Law.
- Represented a healthcare provider against claims of religious discrimination relating to accommodation for COVID-19 vaccines.
- Represented a health system against failure-to-accommodate claims by a deaf patient/employee.
- Represented a Catholic hospital against a claim by a transgender patient that the hospital refused to perform a hysterectomy in violation of Section 1557 of the Affordable Care Act and the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination.
- Defended a physician practice group before the Office of Civil Rights of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services against an alleged violation of HIPAA as a result of a major data breach involving protected health information.
- Represented a home care and hospice agency in negotiating a complex joint venture with a large healthcare system that involved migrating assets and licenses to the joint venture.

- Represented a home health agency in two individual lawsuits in New Jersey federal court alleging that home health aides were not paid overtime based on the federal Department of Labor's new rule taking away the exemption for home health aides. The Plaintiffs agreed to voluntary dismissals and nominal settlements after we demonstrated that their damages would be limited.
- Defended a Catholic health system in an ERISA class action in New Jersey federal district court claiming that its pension is underfunded because it is not an exempt church plan. The court has given preliminary approval to a class action settlement.
- Defended an assisted living community and health care provider company against complex whistleblower claims at trial after prior counsel obtained unfavorable pre-trial rulings. We obtained a favorable settlement while the jury was deliberating.
- Served as lead counsel at trial for a New York-based data hosting company against sensitive breach-of-contract claims brought by former CEO in New Jersey federal district court; case was resolved after the jury returned a verdict.
- Represented a technology company in a race-to-judgment commercial contract and employment litigation pending in California state court and New Jersey federal district court relating to a soured business venture; obtained favorable defense verdict following a two-week jury trial in California.
- Defeated class certification of bonus claims made by more than 200 former and current employees of a cyber charter school in Pennsylvania.
- Represented a prominent New Jersey bank in high-profile investigations by the EEOC and New Jersey Division on Civil Rights concerning allegations that the bank provided more favorable benefits to its male executives than it did to its female employees.
- Obtained dismissal of a unique qui tam action under the New Jersey False Claims Act brought by a former employee of a staffing agency alleging that our client overbilled the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey by millions of dollars.
